In 1799, Coleridge seemed to attain a settled home by accepting an invitation to become the minister of a Unitarian congregation at Shrewsbury; a hope of short duration. The following letter was addressed by Lamb to him at this time, as S. T. Coleridge --as if the Mr. were dropped and the Reverend not quite adopted-- at the Reverend A. Rowe s, Shrewsbury, Shropshire. The tables are turned here;--Lamb, instead of accusing Coleridge of neglect, takes the charge to himself, in deep humility of spirit, and regards the effect of Miss Lamb s renewed illnesses on his mind as inducing indifference, with an affecting self-jealousy. TO MR. COLERIDGE. You have writ me many kind letters, and I have answered none of them. I don t deserve your attentions. An unnatural indifference has been creeping on me since my last misfortunes, or I should have seized the first opening of a correspondence with you. To you I owe much, under God. In my brief acquaintance with you in London, your conversations won me to the better cause, and rescued me from the polluting spirit of the world. I might have been a worthless character without you; as it is, I do possess a certain improvable portion of devotional feelings, tho when I view myself in the light of divine truth, and not according to the common measures of human judgment, I am altogether corrupt and sinful. This is no cant. I am very...
